Subject (in full) Delivery of letter addressed to Mr. D. Milne.

Made by and Forwarded by Supt. Tan Shao Liang

The letter, addressed to Mr. D. Milne by Mr. Bowden, was delivered by a special messenger to Mr. S.L. Ling at the Central Bank of China this morning. Mr. Ling telephoned stating he is unable to issue a written acknowledgment as it will mean leakage of military secrets. He will however give a verbal acknowledgment if Mr. Bowden will ring him up (Tel No. 74580 or 70001).

REPORT

Date. October 15, 1937.

Subject. Disappearance of Mr. D. Milne.

Made by and Forwarded by Supt. Tan Shao Liang

Enquiries have been made at the Passport Office, Woosung-Shanghai Martial Law Headquarters and the Shanghai Office of the Waichiao Pu. They have no record of any person bearing this name (D. Milne) having obtained a visa for Nanking or a Military Pass for the trip.

Not satisfied with the above information, I continued enquiries at the Park Hotel. The Chinese Manager, Mr. Lu, informed me confidentially that during his stay in the hotel between August 29 and September 1, Mr. Milne was visited frequently by a Cantonese named Lu Bing Cham, that both went to Nanking at the same time and that all bills for hotel charges, etc. were paid by Mr. ^{林世良} S.L. Ling, Departmental Chief of the Central Bank of China, a close follower of Dr. H.H.Kung. Mr. Ling being an acquaintance of mine, was approached for information. He states that D. Milne went to Nanking on Sept. 1 where he has succeeded in obtaining orders for a large consignment of supplies (? war supplies) from Australia. He returned to Shanghai once about a fortnight ago but is now believed to be at Nanking again. Prior to leaving Shanghai on September 1, he is said to have called on the British Consulate-General for advice.

Mr. Ling refuses to reveal the address of Mr. D. Milne at Nanking, but states he is quite safe and Mr. Ling will undertake to deliver all letters addressed to Mr. Milne, c/o ^{林世良} Mr. Ling the Central Bank of China, Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, 12th October, 1937.

The Commissioner of Police,
Shanghai Municipal Council,
185 Foochow Road,
LOCAL.

Dear Sir,

On the night 31st August last I received a telephone call from a man who described himself as an Australian commercial traveller named D. Milne, and who told me that he was intending to leave the following day by road for Nanking in the hope of being able to secure orders from the National Government for supplies of provisions, uniform cloth, etc., from Australia. He gave me no indication as to when he expected to come back to Shanghai, but as my Government has asked me to interest myself in the safety of Australians here I enquired of the Park Hotel on 5th instant as to whether he had returned. They replied that he had left on 1st September for Nanking, leaving no forwarding address, and that they had had no subsequent news of him. I also had enquiries made of the Cathay, Metropole and Palace Hotels and at Cathay Mansions and Medhurst, and was told that he had not registered at any of these.

I then wrote (on 5th inst.) to the British Consulate-General here asking if they had any knowledge of his movements and was informed verbally that they had no record of him here but had wired to the Consulate in Nanking enquiring regarding him. Yesterday Mr. A.G.N. Ogden telephoned me that a reply had been received from the Consulate in Nanking to the effect that they could find no trace of him there.

I am making further enquiries in Nanking through private (Australian) channels, as it would seem really to be there that one must look for him, but in order to satisfy myself that he has not returned here I should be very grateful if you would make such enquiries as you can here with a view to learning anything you can regarding his movements.

I may say that, from his conversation with me by telephone, it would seem that he was in touch with Chinese here who had been advising him regarding his trip to Nanking. I would add further that I have never met the man himself and know nothing of him except for his telephone conversation with me above referred to.

Thanking you in anticipation of your kind co-operation in this matter,

I am,

Yours very truly,
